THE PRISONER

Who escapes from jail by no means free. He is under the law of the land and punishment is written over against his name. Soon or late he will be caught again and sent to the penitentiary for his short escape from jail.

Those who by the use of palliative powders and tablets escape for a time from the sufferings of dyspepsia are in the same condition as the escaped prisoner. Soon or late they will go back to the old condition and pay an added penalty for temporary release.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Its cures are lasting.

"For about two years I suffered from a very distressing case of dyspepsia," writes R. R. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Canada. "I tried all sorts of remedies without success. I finally lost weight and felt miserable. I could not eat anything and my stomach was so full of gas that I felt as if I would burst. I had a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure with no inconvenience. I am now eating and sleeping as usual and am feeling better than I have for years." Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets stimulate the liver.

ALIX MUELLER

The Woman in the Tragic Romance of Jim Younger.

Outlaw, Suicide, and the Man Without a Country.

DECLARED TO BE LEGALLY DEAD.

He Could Not Marry the Woman Whom He Loved and to Whom He Owed His Release From Prison

His Hopeless Letters to Her Before He Killed Himself.

Strange and terrible were the last days of Jim Younger. The man who for twenty years was an outlaw and a king of outlaws, sharing the leadership of the greatest gang of bandits this country has ever known, the man who passed a quarter of a century in prison, endured in the last few months of his life greater misery than he had ever known before.

All because of his worship for a good woman who returned his love. He has endured without a complaint the quarter of a century which he passed in convict stripes in the Minnesota Penitentiary, but when his release came his whole being trembled with joy, not simply because he was free to walk the streets, to breathe pure air, to feel the caresses of the sunlight, to meet men face to face, but more because he believed that he was at last free to marry the devoted woman who had opened the door of prison for him.

But he found that the freedom granted him was an empty thing. The inexorable law still held him in chains. Justice, personified in the Attorney General of Minnesota, sternly declared that Jim Younger was legally dead and that he could not marry.

He left the woman who had done so much for him to fight on alone. Miss Alix Mueller bore the sentence more bravely than did the man. She was in Boise City, Idaho, when the news reached her that her lover had killed himself. She had gone there in the hope that the climate would check the ravages of consumption which had fastened its grip upon her. She seemed to be not surprised. He had given a hint of his desperate state of mind. When the telegram announcing Younger's suicide was placed in her hand she said:

"Jim wrote me on October 16 saying that he had given up all hope. He was out of work and utterly dependent. On Saturday he telegraphed me two words: 'Don't write.'"

"He was driven to this act by persecution."

"I am his wife spiritually."

"Before God he is mine and mine alone."

"My life work will be to place him right before the world."

While she spoke she was preparing to return to St. Paul to carry out the last wishes of the man for whom she had made such tremendous sacrifices.

And this was the end of the romance which began six years before when Miss Alix Mueller visited Stillwater Prison and was permitted to gratify a curiosity common to all visitors to that institution, to see the Younger brothers, the only survivors of the James and Younger gang of train robbers, outlaws and bandits.

Miss Mueller was born of German parents, from whom she inherited a sufficient fortune to enable her to live comfortably. She was ambitious and a life of ease and inactivity did not please her. Newspaper work proved an attraction, and she entered upon it in St. Paul. She has also worked as a reporter in Denver and in Salt Lake City. For a time she edited a weekly newspaper in a small Minnesota town.

HER EFFORTS TO SAVE HIM.

When Miss Mueller first visited Stillwater Penitentiary she had no greater interest in the Youngers than had thousands of other visitors. The things she had read had not aroused any sentiment of adoration.

But the personality of Jim Younger interested her, as, indeed, it has most people with whom he has come in contact. He was always a good-looking man and he had force. It was not long before Miss Mueller again visited the prison, this time solely to see Jim Younger.

He was then fifty years old. She was just twenty-four. Neither had ever had a love affair. Almost from the very start those two recognized the affection each bore the other, but it was long before they spoke of it. Others suspected it because of the frequency of her visits to the penitentiary.

Miss Mueller determined to secure the release of her convict sweetheart, and that, of course, meant the release also of Cole, his older brother. She planned a campaign worthy of an experienced politician. So long as it was possible to do so she worked quietly, cultivating the aid of those having influence and power.

For two years Miss Mueller managed to keep her plans secret, and when they were divulged the storm broke forth. The relatives of those who had been killed by the outlaws in their raid on the Northfield Bank, and some of those who had been in the fight, protested bitterly against releasing the murderers. And there were others who were just as bitter.

Since 1894 at least three efforts were made to secure the release of the Youngers before Miss Mueller disclosed the results of her long planning and working. The sentiment against the brothers was still powerful, but Miss Mueller was the stronger, and she secured from the Legislature the passage of a special act which resulted in the release of the Younger brothers on parole.

The lovers thought that their troubles were over and their happiness knew no bounds.

Jim Younger went directly to the home of Edward Schermeyer, in St. Paul, with whom Miss Mueller made her home. But when the uncle discovered that his niece was engaged to marry Jim Younger he was furious and ordered the paroled convict from his home.

Jim Younger worked with vigor and enthusiasm to make enough money to support his wife, for they had planned to marry very soon. Miss Mueller had spent a considerable part of her inheritance in securing her lovers parole, but she still had enough left to keep them from want. But Younger did not want to touch her money.

Other friends and relatives of the young woman shared the indignation of the uncle when they discovered that Miss Mueller was engaged to marry Jim Younger. They set about to prevent the marriage. They made an appeal to the Attorney-General. He decided that the Youngers were still legally dead. They had not been restored to citizenship. "In the eyes of the law they were as much prisoners as if they were still in the penitentiary."

The blow staggered Jim Younger and Miss Mueller. They had not dreamed that they could be prevented from marrying. It aged the man more than years in prison. But the indomitable woman did not give up. She appealed to the Pardoning Board and to the Governor for a full pardon for Jim Younger.

But the struggle of years, the anxiety, the sleepless nights, the physical effort and mental anguish, had undermined the young woman's health. The physicians found that she had consumption and they told her she must seek another climate.

THE BOARD REFUSED TO PARDON HIM.

Then Jim Younger realized how great was his capacity for suffering. He was racked and torn by emotions so terrible that his mind became unbalanced. To marry Miss Mueller meant more to him than anything else in the world. It was worth all the years he had spent in prison. And she was fighting the white death thousands of miles away. He could not go to her, for the law said he could not leave the State. He could only hope that the Board of Pardons would grant his prayer.

But it decided against him.

Years before, after the Northfield raid, one of the many bullets that found a resting-place in Jim Younger's body pierced his brain and lodged there. It had given him no trouble until he was released from prison. Then it manifested itself. The mental struggles, the bitter disappointment when he found that he could not marry Miss Mueller, still further weakened him. There is no doubt that Jim Younger was fast becoming insane when he shot himself.

He sent the telegram to Miss Mueller telling her not to write on Saturday, October 18. That night he shot himself in his room in St. Paul. When the door was broken open there were found the love letters he had received from Miss Mueller on which was a note that read:

"Oh, lassie, good-by. All relatives just stay away from me. No crocodile tears wanted. Reporters, be my friends. Bury me. JIM YOUNGER."

There was a letter which read:

"A. U. G.: Last night on earth. So good-by, lassie, for I still think of thee. A. U. G. Forgive me, for this is my only chance. I have done nothing wrong, but politics is all that Van Sant, Weller and others of their stripe care for. Let the people judge. Treat me right and fair, reporters, for I am a square man. A socialist, and decidedly in favor of woman's rights. Bryan is the brightest man the United States has ever produced. His one mistake is in not coming out for all the people and absolute socialism. Come out, Bryan. There is no such thing as a personal God. God is universal, and I know him well, and am not afraid."

"I have pity for the Pardoning Board. They do not stop to consider their wives, or to think of the man that knows how to love and appreciate a friend in truth. Good-by, sweet lassie. JIM YOUNGER."

They did not cremate Jim Younger's body as he requested. Instead it was taken to Missouri and placed beside that of his brother Bob in Lee's Summit Cemetery, from which one can see the grove of oaks on the banks of the Little Blue where William Clark Quantrell organized his band of guerrillas in which Cole and Jim Younger, Frank and Jessie James, Jim Cummings and others who drifted from war into brigandage and could scarce distinguish between them. And for years there was little difference.

A wooden board eighteen inches high and nine inches wide, on which a boy has rudely carved, with a jack-knife, the name of Bob Younger in two lines, marks where the youngest of the brothers lies. And another board, with "Jim Younger" written in lead pencil, is at the head of the second brother. In the course of time Cole Younger will rest there too.—N. Y. World.

NOTICE IN BANKRUPTCY.

In the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Kentucky, Owensboro Division.

In the matter of John B. Dean, Debtor. Vs. Bankruptcy Trustee.

Notice is hereby given that on the 5th day of Nov. A. D. 1902, the said John B. Dean, was duly adjudged bankrupt; and that the first meeting of creditors will be held at the law office of J. A. Dean in Owensboro, Kentucky, on the first day of December, A. D. 1902, at 2 p. m., at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the Debtor, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

J. A. DEAN, Referee in Bankruptcy. Nov. 20th, 1902.

BROTHERLY KINDNESS.

Brotherly Kindness may be considered by some a very old subject to write on for a newspaper. However this may be there are some things that come under this title that are not generally supposed to. A great many people think that if they treat everybody they meet with politeness, and visit their neighbors when they are sick they have done their whole duty in the way of kindness. But I think there is a great deal of kindness in letting people alone sometimes. For instance in the way of criticism. It is a very common thing to see men and women watching their neighbors and criticizing almost everything they do and say. They will say, "Well if I had been in their place I wouldn't have done that, that way" or "I wouldn't have said that for anything!" And they will think within themselves, "Why don't my neighbors do and think like I do?" And if they could succeed in getting them to do so, they would see what an awkward plight they would be getting things into. They would be standing in probably a dozen people's stead, while that member would lose their identity.

You can easily imagine how it would be if the faces of a whole community of people were all alike; and it would be equally as bad if they all thought alike.

Of course it is essential, in order to preserve the right relations of society, that we all be of the same mind concerning the great fundamental principles of morality. But aside from these, and in line with them, there is abundant latitude for difference in individuals, and the rights of each are entitled to the same respect from all the rest, as are the rights of property. In the way we dress, in the time we devote to sleep, in the training and education of our children and in a thousand ways to numerous to mention, we are each entitled to freedom from criticism, so long as we do not wrong anyone else.

Now you who are in the habit of commenting too freely on the acts and motives of others, quit it, and you will be a better person yourself. Set a good example to others, and save the persons criticised a great deal of annoyance. And that would be in my judgment a long step towards brotherly kindness.

LAURA M. ACRE.

Lots of people who suffer from constipation or biliousness know they need a medicine, but refrain, dreading the common griping, purging, sickening sensations of the ordinary remedies. Now we are prepared to supply a treatment that is void of these unpleasant effects—a milder, mild, pleasant, thorough remedy—Ramon's Liver Pills and Tonic Pellets. Two medicines, complete cure, 25 cents. Sample free for the asking. J. H. Williams.

SHOT TO DEATH IN GUATEMALA

Godfrey Hunter, Jr., a Kentuckian, Killed Wm. Fitzgerald, of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

And Then Sought Refuge in the Legation.

Question as to His Exemption From Arrest.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The State Department has been informed that Godfrey Hunter, Jr., son of the United States Minister to Guatemala City, today shot and killed William Fitzgerald, of Grand Rapids, Mich. Hunter has taken refuge in the legation, and an interesting question has arisen as to his exemption from arrest.

Important details are lacking in the report of the affair, which has come to the State Department, and the officials are in doubt as to what should be done. They have no notion of surrendering, without a protest, an American citizen to the local courts of Guatemala, unless satisfied that the man is a proper subject for punishment. Even then it is not at all certain that the department itself has a right to waive any legal exemption that the man might have. International law lays down the precept that an ambassador or minister may, not of his own accord, surrender any such exemption in his own case. A closer inspection of the original advice reveals the fact that the only name by which the man was known was Fitzgerald. He has not the Christian name William, as was supposed at first. He was shot four times.

Another important fact developed was that young Hunter was accompanied at the time of the shooting by the secretary of the legation. This official is set down in the register as being James G. Bailey, of Kentucky, who went to his post in June, 1901. The cable also, rather by suggestion than by direct statement, gave ground for an inference that the killing was provoked. Not much is known here of the personality of Godfrey Hunter, Jr., and it is impossible to learn definitely whether or not he was actually connected with the United States legation at Guatemala City at the time of the killing. That he had been a clerk or typewriter in the legation is established. He was certainly a member of the Minister's family, and that fact might be regarded as sufficient to bar a claim of exemption.

It is supposed here that the shooting affair may have been the result of the recent relief of Dr. Hunter from his post as minister. The Doctor has been steadily embroiled with members of the American colony almost since he assumed office in 1897, and lately, owing to his connection with a railroad and other matters not supposed to be proper for a minister to meddle with, the pressure became so acute that the department was obliged to relieve him from office. It may be that Fitzgerald was connected in some way with the charges against the minister.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 27.—William Fitzgerald was born here, and was about 27 years old. Seven or eight years ago he drifted to Guatemala, where he held several different government positions. He is said, by his relatives here to have been private secretary of the president of Guatemala for some time past. The last time he was in Grand Rapids was two years ago. At one time Fitzgerald was parlor car conductor on the Grand Rapids & Indiana railroad.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Portland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by all druggists.

Independent Candidate.

Capt. W. H. Sweeney, who has been Commonwealth's Attorney for the Eleventh Judicial district for the past twelve years, having been elected each time by the Democratic party, in a published statement defines his position in regard to the coming contest for that office. Capt. Sweeney, it will be remembered, committed, according to a Democratic politician's standpoint, the unpardonable sin, at the last state election, of refusing to support the Goebel ticket. As a consequence there has been a good deal of speculation since it has been noted about that Capt. Sweeney would be a candidate to succeed himself as just where he is "at" politically. In his case Capt. Sweeney states his position as follows: "Not wishing to deceive any of my friends in this judicial district, and that they may be able to understand my exact position in relation to the next race for Commonwealth's Attorney of this judicial district, I desire to say to you that I will not be a candidate before any Democratic primary or convention that may be called to nominate a candidate for that office. I will be an independent candidate for re-election to the position I now occupy, and if the Republicans see proper to give me their endorsement, I will accept the endorsement with pleasure."

To the Public.

Allow me to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I can recommend it with the utmost confidence. It has done good work for me and will do the same for others. I had a very severe cough and cold and feared I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pain in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, Ralph S. Meyers, 64 Thirtieth St., Wheeling, W. Va. For sale by all druggists.

Pick up the Tools.

Now is the time when the farmer should take a little time off to pick up the various farm tools and machinery that may yet happen to be out around the fields, or elsewhere from under cover, says Farmer's Guide. Go about it systematically and do a good job for it will be money in your pocket if you see that everything is well housed, away from the bad weather that will come with the opening of winter. To do this it will not require so much time "off" after all, in fact it will take very little time away from your other every day work. Just a little thought and a moment's time now than then as you go about the farm from day to day will very soon have everything brought to the barn or tool shed where it may be further put away as desired at a more convenient hour. This little precaution will cost nothing and will save you quite a little in the life and usefulness of the tools.

Rich Land.

The man who dreams of farming always imagines himself owning rich land. There is no other kind that will yield a profit from the soil. The richness of the land regulates the value of the farm both in the market and in the operation of farming. Yet in the face of this well-known fact, millions of acres of most valuable and productive land have been allowed to deteriorate in fertility. The great problem of how to bring them back to their former state of fertility is one with which the best of scientists are working. It is not practical for a man to buy enough stable manure or commercial fertilizer to at once bring back his land to its original state. A few facts in relation to the composition of the soil helps us in determining the best course to pursue. One of these facts is that the poverty of the land comes principally from the exhaustion of available plant food and from the exhaustion of the plant food that is not at once available. In the process of years the new unavailable plant food

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How to Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

Want to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and sealding pain in passing it, of bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery FREE, and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. ## Inclement Weather Brings

Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

Inclement weather begins when autumn ends. The great objection to our climate is that it alternates between the heat of the tropics and the rigors of the Arctic.

The system becomes relaxed by the effects of the heat, and the first cold snap of winter sows the seed of thousands of cases of chronic catarrh which in a large per cent. of cases will end fatally.

Congressman Horace G. Snover, of Port Austin, Mich., writes from House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I have found Peruna a very efficient and speedy remedy for a persistent and annoying cough resulting from catarrhal trouble."—Horace G. Snover.

Mrs. Lavina E. Walker, who holds the highest state office of the Ladies of the Illinois G. A. R., which is Department of Representatives, writes the following letter:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O. Gentlemen:—You have my sincere gratitude for placing before suffering women a medicine which has proven such a blessing as Peruna has.

"I have used it myself when much worn out, and found most gratifying results, and a number of the women of President Wm. Ubelaker Uses Peruna as a Sufferer Against Inclement Weather.

Wm. Ubelaker, President of the Lake View Lodge of Foresters, writes from 8227 North Clark St., Chicago, Ill., the following letter:

Gentlemen:—For years past when I have been exposed to wet or inclement weather, my chest would hurt me and I would have serious indigestion, and I would be laid up for a day or two, causing inconvenience and pain.

One of my lodge friends advised me to try Peruna, as it had helped him, and I found that a bottle cured me.

If I feel badly now I at once take two or three doses, and I find it keeps me in fine health. Peruna is worthy of every one's confidence.—WM. UBELAKER.

It is only just ordinary good, common sense to provide against inclement weather. If you have the slightest cold, cough, sneezing, or any other indication that you are "under the weather," a few doses of Peruna will put you right.

We have to put back on the soil year by year as much as we take off in the way of fertilizer to gradually bring back the land to a rich condition, by the annual increase of available plant food from natural causes. ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For State Senator.

We are authorized to announce HON. A. B. DENNETT as a candidate for State Senator from the seventh Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

For Representative.

We are authorized to announce DR. A. D. PARK as a candidate for Representative from this county, subject to the action of the Republican party.

At seventy years of age Uncle Joe Cannon will become Speaker of the House, a distinction Mrs. Cannon has enjoyed for well nigh fifty years.

Why not go a step farther here in Ohio county and abolish all civil and criminal laws, and substitute a new law for the better and more humane protection of lopped-off pole cats?

If the sale of indulgences in Germany three centuries ago had excited no more popular resentment than the sale of indictments in Ohio county, Martin Luther would not have fathered a revolution.

Those who have observed the able, conscientious administration of justice by Judge Owen for the past twelve years, will regret to see him retire from the bench, and more especially so, because of the possible succession of the very incompetent Mr. Birkhead.

HEINRICH KRUPP, the great German cannon-maker, has made an immense fortune on his inventions of heavy ordnance, but he has gone now, and unfortunately, he could take neither cannon nor money with him. He will have to begin all anew in his endless home in the Elysian fields.

As a Republican, we are well pleased to see the Democrats hold a primary election next year to nominate candidates for State offices, but as a citizen, whose birthday can occur but once a year, we regret to see the 3rd of May desecrated by a Democratic primary, which will make the Music Hall convention look like thirty cents.

If there is anybody in Kentucky who wants to kill anybody else in Kentucky and has conscientious scruples about being hung or going to the penitentiary, we advise him to allure his victim to Ohio county, do the job, get his certificate of good character and a chronicle from the Ohio Circuit Court and go on his way rejoicing.

The Hartford Herald does Jailer Black a very great injustice, inadvertently, we suppose, this week, by insinuating that he confined female prisoners in the same cell with men. Commenting on the inadequacy of the jail, which is timely, it says there should be a separate department for women. In fact, Jailer Black has never, during his term of office, confined a female prisoner in a cell with men.

In this issue of THE REPUBLICAN will be found the announcement of Dr. A. D. Park, of Rockport, for the Republican nomination for Representative. Dr. Park is a well-known Republican whose merits, political and personal, deserve the highest praise and earnest consideration of the Republicans of Ohio county. It is noted, Dr. Park will make a successful race and will serve his county in the Lower House of the General Assembly with credit to himself and to his constituents.

The biggest gun in the world will be floated down the Hudson from the Watervliet arsenal and mounted for coast defense at Sandy Hook next month. It weighs 130 tons without its carriage. It will use 1,000 pounds of powder in sending a 2,370 pound shell 21 miles. It shows the highest development in the manufacture of weapons of modern warfare. What an immense stride from the rude club of primal man!

We took occasion, last week, to call the attention of our readers to the appalling results to popular government which must follow the wholesale buying of voters. We recognized the difficulty of correcting the evil and suggested, as the most available remedy, the education of popular sentiment through the columns of the press. Credit our neighbor, the Hartford Herald, with good intentions and bad judgment, and with loving its party better than its country, we will deal charitably with it for laughing in church, as it were, by very small referring to a supposed familiarity of ours with corruption methods. As an observing citizen we have seen something, aye, seen too much of it. We regret the Herald could not take a higher view of this iniquitous evil than to twaddle about Republicans being a party to it. We took Catholic grounds in the matter, shifting not all the blame to the Democratic party. Our readers are not fools and we shall not try to fool them. They know that both parties in county, State and National elections collect and disburse corruption funds, that that party spends the most that is able to collect the most, and everybody but fools know it and everybody but knaves acknowledge it.

"Some years ago while at Martinsburg, W. Va., I was taken with cholera morbus, which was followed by diarrhoea. The doctor's medicine did me no good. I was advised to get a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I did, and it cured me sound and well."—G. A. Morris, Evansville, Pa. Sold by all druggists.

At seventy years of age Uncle Joe Cannon will become Speaker of the House, a distinction Mrs. Cannon has enjoyed for well nigh fifty years.

Why not go a step farther here in Ohio county and abolish all civil and criminal laws, and substitute a new law for the better and more humane protection of lopped-off pole cats?

If the sale of indulgences in Germany three centuries ago had excited no more popular resentment than the sale of indictments in Ohio county, Martin Luther would not have fathered a revolution.

Those who have observed the able, conscientious administration of justice by Judge Owen for the past twelve years, will regret to see him retire from the bench, and more especially so, because of the possible succession of the very incompetent Mr. Birkhead.

HEINRICH KRUPP, the great German cannon-maker, has made an immense fortune on his inventions of heavy ordnance, but he has gone now, and unfortunately, he could take neither cannon nor money with him. He will have to begin all anew in his endless home in the Elysian fields.

As a Republican, we are well pleased to see the Democrats hold a primary election next year to nominate candidates for State offices, but as a citizen, whose birthday can occur but once a year, we regret to see the 3rd of May desecrated by a Democratic primary, which will make the Music Hall convention look like thirty cents.

If there is anybody in Kentucky who wants to kill anybody else in Kentucky and has conscientious scruples about being hung or going to the penitentiary, we advise him to allure his victim to Ohio county, do the job, get his certificate of good character and a chronicle from the Ohio Circuit Court and go on his way rejoicing.

The Hartford Herald does Jailer Black a very great injustice, inadvertently, we suppose, this week, by insinuating that he confined female prisoners in the same cell with men. Commenting on the inadequacy of the jail, which is timely, it says there should be a separate department for women. In fact, Jailer Black has never, during his term of office, confined a female prisoner in a cell with men.

In this issue of THE REPUBLICAN will be found the announcement of Dr. A. D. Park, of Rockport, for the Republican nomination for Representative. Dr. Park is a well-known Republican whose merits, political and personal, deserve the highest praise and earnest consideration of the Republicans of Ohio county. It is noted, Dr. Park will make a successful race and will serve his county in the Lower House of the General Assembly with credit to himself and to his constituents.

The biggest gun in the world will be floated down the Hudson from the Watervliet arsenal and mounted for coast defense at Sandy Hook next month. It weighs 130 tons without its carriage. It will use 1,000 pounds of powder in sending a 2,370 pound shell 21 miles. It shows the highest development in the manufacture of weapons of modern warfare. What an immense stride from the rude club of primal man!

We took occasion, last week, to call the attention of our readers to the appalling results to popular government which must follow the wholesale buying of voters. We recognized the difficulty of correcting the evil and suggested, as the most available remedy, the education of popular sentiment through the columns of the press. Credit our neighbor, the Hartford Herald, with good intentions and bad judgment, and with loving its party better than its country, we will deal charitably with it for laughing in church, as it were, by very small referring to a supposed familiarity of ours with corruption methods. ## JOINED THE DIMMYCRATS.

Mr. Thomas C. Park Changes From the Sublime to the Ridiculous.

"EDITOR HERALD. I think there is a stopping place. I have this to say about the Republican party: I now see that my belonging to the Republican party is a mistake. I have made all my life, so from this time on I will be a Democrat. I say one doesn't think in sincerity, time will tell."

THOMAS C. PARK.

"Nov. 25, 1902. Clear Run, Ky."

Mr. Thomas C. Park, of the Clear Run country, has "joined the Dimmycrats," and he advertises the fact, as above, in the Hartford Herald. It is a very witty, as he announces his change in a very few words. He doesn't offer any reason for his change of political garments, but just says: "I'm gwine over and I'm in earnest about it."

We are not devoting this space to bawling the loss of Mr. Park, however, we don't like to see a good boy go wrong, but we are just giving our mission of giving our readers the news. Young Park is a very nice boy, but he is not personally a man of such importance that the public would be deeply interested in his political whims, but the very fact of a Republican "joining the Dimmycrats" in Ohio county, is so unusual that it is really sensational.

We have never written a line bragging on ourself as a coooper, but we know our readers will credit us with with scooping the Herald in this matter. That paper had the first swash at this sensation, but said: "nary word about it editorially or otherwise. Except a fellow up about Barretts, Mr. Park is the first Republican in Ohio county to 'join the Dimmycrats' in for about twenty years. The Barretts fellow felt a long letter, or Dr. Motherhead or Dr. Rattlehead, or whatever his name was writ it for him, setting forth his reasons for changing."

Mr. Park don't give any reasons for joining, but contents himself by a public announcement that he has joined.

Perhaps Mr. Park's patriotism prompted him to recognize the danger of the country becoming politically anemic, or maybe he "joined the Dimmycrats" out of unbounded sympathy for the under dog, but anyway, his joining is a bit of sensational news for which our readers should give us credit for reporting.

SAGE ADVICE.

Tinsler, Ky., Nov. 18, 1902.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN: It seems to me that a long autumn night, (until it is necessary to sink into the embrace of morpheus) cannot be better spent than in giving helpful advice to that honorable and honored class who are now busy in discharging the duties of their vocation. I refer to the teachers of our public schools.

Understand, however, that I do not claim to be able to advise as to the manner of conducting their schools, but as an old enough, had experience enough as a teacher of "Ve Olden Time," and have given the subject sufficient thought to have some claims to being qualified to advise as to what to study—to some extent—to elevate our standard. I have in my intercourse with teachers, and others, having claims to scholarship, discovered a lamentable deficiency in literature, both ancient and modern.

To many it were as well that Eschylus or Shakespeare had not been born.

I once asked a teacher, holding a first-class certificate, who was the first great epic poet of Ancient Greece and he answered Plato, he believed. I then asked him who wrote the Iliad and he answered he did not exactly remember, but believed it was Plato. I really thought he had Plato on the brain—a bad case of platitudo. And again I asked another who, however, held only a second-class certificate, who were, to the best of his recollection, the three most prominent philosophers of old Greece (pretending to ask for information) and he answered Demosthenes was one, he thought, and as to the others he had forgotten. I suggested that probably it was Socrates and Aristotle, and he in an uncertain way answered, he rather thought it was. I considered it best to let Plato rest this time and allow Demosthenes, the great orator of antiquity, to stand as one of the trio of Great philosophers of Greece.

Many teachers, too many, have neglected to inform themselves in modern, as well as ancient, literature. As rare Ben Johnson said, in substance, in his address to and from Shakespeare the Swan of Avon, as he calls him. "Poets are made as well as born," and to make such verses as that of his friend, the author "must sweat and take the second heat." To compose such a work as Hume's history of the rise and fall of the Roman Empire requires immense labor, and exhaustive investigation. In truth, a long array of English authors, poets, essayists, historians, &c., as well as our own American productions, no less interesting, loom up limningly, but are woefully neglected by a majority of our educators and scholars of every calling.

The more we read of Homer in his Iliad or Odyssey, the more we love him for his virtuous sentiments and admire his transcendent genius. One never tires of pouring over these masterly lines.

And what of Socrates, the greatest philosopher of antiquity? Who can fail to be benefited by perusal of his philosophy when we find that our author was born, bred and resided in a country, believing in a plurality of Gods, the extinction of man in every form with death, and where virtue had no reward save in this life, yet, notwithstanding, he reasoned from Nature up to one Supreme being, the immortality of the soul, and the reward for a well spent life after death, and this without any aid from the sacred writings of the Jews? A perusal of his writings will strengthen our often waning faith in the grandest of all literary productions, included in the Iliad of the Holy Bible, for if Socrates could, from Nature and strength of intellect, discover the true God and man's duty and relation to him, it must be true that God is, and a reward of the deeds done in the body, added the scriptures, with the super-added advent of The Babe of Bethlehem, since the day of the philosopher bears out his doctrine, and establishes its truth. I know that the last lines are rather a digression from the Iliad I had marked out, but my earnestness on this subject must be my apology.

If I could, I would have every lover of learning, to profit by the God given genius and stupendous labors of those renowned authors and actors, who have so splendidly illuminated the pages of the world's progress in letters.

It may be asked why I so earnestly insist on the study of literature, a something I have partially answered in the body of this writing, or what practical bearing will it have on the duties or success of life?

All certainly must know the importance of understanding references to authors and works of bygone ages, and must know that some acquaintance with them is of great value in acquiring a thorough knowledge of our own language, and a correct estimate of our own literature. I do not in this connection dwell on the love of the beautiful, the thirst for knowledge, that should spring up and dwell in every youthful breast. Surely the gems which sparkle in the basket of the "Iliad," "Odyssey," "Aeneid" and the "Merchant of Venice" ought to attract the gaze and call forth the admiration of every youth on our land.

J. W. MEADOR.

People who use "liver pills" ought to try the well known Chamberlain's Liver Pills and Tonic Pellets. No harmful for a dose—no constant dosing—no debilitating, weakening effect. They are far superior to the ordinary pill. Box of 25 doses 25c. J. H. Williams.

Rev. Irl Hicks' 1903 Almanac.

To say that this splendid work of science and art is finer and better than ever, is stating it mildly. The demand for it is far beyond all previous years. To say that such results, reaching through thirty years, are not based upon sound sense and wisdom, is an insult to the intelligence of millions. Prof. Hicks, through this great Almanac, and his immense family and scientific journal, Word and Works, is doing a work for the whole people not approached by any other man or public work. A first-class will prove this to any reasonable person. Added to the most luminous course in astronomy for 1903 forecasts of storms and weather are given, as never before, for every day in the year, all charmingly illustrated with nearly two hundred engravings. The price of single Almanacs, including postage and mailing, is thirty cents. Word and Works with the Almanac is $1.00 a year. Write to Word and Works Publishing Co., 2201 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo., and prove to yourself their great value.

A Liberal Offer.

The undersigned will give a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to any one wanting a reliable remedy for disorders of the stomach, biliousness or constipation. This is a new remedy and a good one. All druggists.

WYMAN.

Mr. Editor: Your timely warning in regard to political corruption in Kentucky, last week, was to the point, and should be regarded by all right thinking people.

We have a large number of voters in McLean county who are easily influenced by money, strong drink, bad music or excitement. This vote is composed of both white and black. They will participate in a Republican convention and then vote for the Democratic nominee. They will hurrah for one candidate and vote for the other. They hold the balance of power and can elect or defeat any man they please.

Many ignorant blacks suffered to be let out of town on last election day and kept drunk all day. Your remedy, to educate such creatures, is, indeed, an uphill business, from the fact they cannot and will not read, or even listen to sensible advice. I have thought that an educational pre-registe might be required of each voter, with good results.

Mrs. Sue Landrum, wife of Judge Ben F. Landrum, died at her home in Calhoun Sunday of typhoid fever. Mrs. Landrum was a most excellent lady and will be greatly missed by the people of Calhoun. She was the mother-in-law of Prof. Chas. H. Ellis, principal of Calhoun College.

Out this out and take it to all druggists, drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, the best physic. They cleanse and invigorate the stomach, improve the appetite and regulate the bowels. Regular size, 25c per box.

DEMOCRATIC WHIR

State Central Committee calls State Primary and is Enjoined.

The Final Act of Democratic Rascality that will Disrupt the Party and Assure Republican Ascendancy in Kentucky.

The Democratic State Central Committee met at Frankfort Tuesday and called State Primary Convention for May 3, 1903 to nominate candidates for State offices next year. Thirty minutes after the order was made, calling the State primary, a member of the committee, more fond of his party than of the Goebel element of it, filed a suit enjoining the holding of a State Primary election.

The petition in the injunction suit set forth the facts that a State Primary election would cost $36,000 and that the State Central Committee had no authority to assess and collect from the candidates, for State offices, the money necessary to defray the expenses of the primary. The injunction suit was brought in tyrant Cantilla's court, and he being a rank Goebelian, will, of course, dissolve the injunction.

The Goebel element of the party has fixed a date with Beckham at the head of it, and will put up the money for the primary and freeze out the poor Democratic candidates.

Twenty pounds of white "B" Sugar for $1 at the New Cash Grocery.

The Ball Opening.

Rockport, Ky., Editor REPUBLICAN: Rockport has grown in prosperity to such an extent, during her later days, that she, now, can announce two candidates for Representative of this county. Both are full-fledged Republicans, subject to the action of the Republican party.

The fact of the two to make the announcement, was Dr. A. D. Park, one of Rockport's best citizens, but formerly of Clinton. The doctor has made this place his home for the past two years, and has made many warm friends who will take pleasure in assisting him for the nomination at the general election.

Next comes the announcement of Mr. Geo. M. Maddox, who is too well known in this county, to require any newspaper repetition. He has been a life-long Republican, and one that has always worked for the benefit of his party and fellow-citizens. J. R.
